Frank T. Coulson & Robert G. Babcock (edd.), The Oxford Handbook of Latin Palaeography (Oxford, 2021) pp. 39-59, figg.

Defines cursive script and surveys the development of Latin cursive script in Antiquity and Late Antiquity. Discusses the two principal Latin cursive scripts, "Old Roman Cursive" and "New Roman Cursive," and illuminates how the latter arose from the former. The ductus of cursive and constructed scripts is analyzed using examples from ancient papyri, parchments, wooden tablets, and wax tablets.
