

Romeo Popa, Deeds of Will on Papyrus and the Use of the Term διαθήκη in the Letters of Paul.

NTS 70 (2024) pp. 262-274.

1. Introduction. - 2. Paul and the language of wills according to the legal documentary papyri. - 3. The legal practice of revoking wills: from the "previous" to the "second" testament. - 4. The Corinthians and the Pauline expression "old / new testament". - 5. "Once a person's will has been ratified, no one adds to it or annuls it." The legal and theological inconsistencies of the Pauline argumentation in Gal 3.15-17. - 6. Conclusions and outlook: The conflict of Paul with his opponents in Galatia as dispute over inheritance.

2024-0074